

Logical existentialism

Wednesday, 3 February 2021

A logical psychology of sentience

A cognitive process is one of either experiential or experimental relative to the physical horizon. The immediate physical horizons of mortality are perceptible in a metaphysical actualism, and intangible in a metaphysical realism. The projection of realism is a manifestation of self realization. The knowledge of actualism is a history of self actualisation.