Sociology & Sociopathology

When the individual conceives of society as informal, a membership of subtle body $\alpha\phi\lambda$, relationships have no requirement for formality. When the individual conceives of society as formal, a membership of physical body $\alpha\phi\tau$, relationships have individual requirements for formality. Preservation of self is maintained by effects of distance and propriety.

The conception of society may be esoteric. The distinction has equivalence to awareness when the individual does not reject social formality.

The premise thus developed is not practical, which experience previews the necessary derivation to (a) rationalism (of awareness). However, it remains the relevant, common, and popular contest for the resolution of the acceptance of criminalization in society. The anarchist proposition that freedom be inclusive. That devices of government are exclusionary.

Perhaps the term democrat or socialist may best represent freedom as social independence and economic interdependence as individually proprietary, with government established to serve the common sustenance and development as a public goods industry in law and education.

Therefore the anarchist position compromises individual to society. The other imposition is a tolerable time sink. Life is thus occupied. The limits of intention are discovered arbitrarily, and may be resolved by violence.

Generally, self preservation is subsumed by society and we regress by millennia. At least in terms of productivity and reproductive freedom. One imagines that the males kill off their compeitors and the females bear children. When the principle of existence is reproductive, and individual is subsumed to society thusly, rape is sex and murder is its partner.

Our evolutions over our millennia have rejected anarchy as impractical. Intolerable. We develop and sustain the rational outcome in social independence and economic interdependence as individually propriety. And we recognize that the essential device of derivation is awareness. This we identify as humanity. In society, the sovereignty of humanity.
