

a logical psychology of society

A perceptual field of others is populated with variations on a theme of humanity punctuated by variations on a theme of inhumanity. The sanity and inanity of morality and depravity are the hills and valleys of sense and sensibility. The perceptual field assembled is a metaphysical field. A social field of awareness.

From a social field of awareness we derive innumerable differentiations of organic security, linguistic intellect, and ethereal esoterica. In the visual accumulation of available information we find subtleties of being when we are not interrupted by inanity. We communicate in substance of significance and fail to communicate in nonsense of no significance.

The effective field of awareness is made abstract by discontinuity. However, that discontinuity is reflected in the larger macrocosmae of society. Nation and planet are connected by technologies of ad hoc communication. Communication succeeds or fails by language, character, and education.

The field of awareness is found in and developed with technology and education.

Our sustenance is found in awareness, and our annihilation is found in ignorance.