

Logical existentialism

Friday, 19 February 2021

A logical psychological morality

The physio- cognitive morality is a metaphysical fabric of will and representation (established in A logical existential experientialism of 2021/02/18). The space of gross moral classes includes the four cardinals identified in A logical psychological morality of 2021/02/15 (and updated 2021/02/16).

It would be natural to recognize metaphysical morality as nondeterministic and nonlinear. Derived metaphysical facts are fuzzy due to the complexity of the individual interior. This note reinforces and develops that understanding.

The metaphysical moral ontology demands qualification. An alternative ontology is superior in the greater abstraction of half as many degrees of freedom. The dichotomy creative and destructive envelops the space of possible moral fabrics. As qualifiers, the angelic type class produces creative angelic and destructive angelic derivatives. The former is the evident redundant equivalent, and the latter is a region intersecting (self) constructive and destructive metaphysical fabrics.

An interpretative case is physically self destructive and metaphysically self constructive.

The possibility space of the moral fabric of the metaphysical manifold is enormous. Most cases are gray and relativistic. The cardinality of the ontology is misleading when perceived as rigid and deterministic, because the actual domain of examination and the object of representation is nondeterministic as well as nonlinear.

John Pritchard, @syntelos [CC-BY-NC]